

Jenn Morris

OAM OLY

Jenn Morris is a Board Director with experience across publicly listed, private and not-for-profit organisations, with a particular focus on growth and value creation, transformation and leadership through complexity.

A consistent theme throughout Jenn's career has been helping organisations pursue ambitious goals and achieve significant outcomes through periods of growth, increasing complexity and transformational change. Grounded in elite sport, Jenn understands the value of strong work ethic, competitive mindset and relentless focus on achieving outcomes.

She currently serves on the boards of Sandfire Resources (ASX:SFR), Liontown (ASX:LTR), Argonaut and FORM Building a State of Creativity, and recently completed a seven-year tenure on the board of Fortescue Metals Group (ASX:FMG).

Jenn is often sought out for her judgement, strategic perspective and ability to cut through complexity quickly particularly during periods of organisational scaling, leadership transition and transformation. Her work sits at the intersection of strategy, leadership, capability and execution. Jenn has a strong interest in how AI, automation and emerging technologies will reshape organisational design, workforce capability and leadership models over the coming decade.

Her current board roles span global mining, financial services, policy and the creative industries. At Liontown and Sandfire Resources, she has contributed through periods of significant growth, operational scaling and international expansion. At Argonaut, a leading privately owned financial services group, she has supported the business through a period of rapid growth and diversification driven by a deliberate talent-led growth strategy across investment banking, institutional stockbroking and funds management. During her tenure at Fortescue, the company evolved through substantial global growth, strategic transformation and increasing focus on decarbonisation and energy transition.

Prior to her board career, Jenn was a Partner at Deloitte in the management consulting division and later held senior executive roles within Andrew and Nicola Forrest's Minderoo Foundation, including CEO of Walk Free.

Jenn also brings a strong interest in leadership effectiveness and high-performance environments, shaped by both her executive and board experience and by her earlier career representing Australia in hockey, where she won Olympic gold medals at the 1996 Atlanta and 2000 Sydney Olympic Games.
